NOTES:

1. All Academic Year and Semester applicants may apply for IUP tuition reductions, and all applications are judged by the same criteria.
2. IUP tuition reductions are awarded after admissions decisions.
3. IUP tuition reductions are supplementary, and some students may not receive aid from IUP.
4. IUP tuition reduction awards are based on a combination of merit and need, but not on merit or need alone.
5. IUP highly discourages students from working while attending IUP.
6. Attendance fees are US $14,000 (tuition and emergency medical insurance) for the Academic Year, payable in two installments, each one due approximately two weeks prior to the start of each semester. Semester attendance fees are US $7,500, payable in one installment.
7. Other expenses not included in the attendance fees are airfare, housing, personal allowance for food, books, local transportation, etc. (approximately $600/month).

Applicant's Signature

To reserve space at IUP, we will generally require a non-refundable deposit before the applicant takes the language interview (please read "New Requirement for All Admitted Applicants" in the Instructions and Checklist located in the Admissions section of IUP's website). Reduced, non-refundable deposits are available for applicants who are dependent on non-IUP scholarships to attend IUP, and those applicants will be asked to provide the contact info of their potential scholarship sources. IUP expects applicants to know their financial situations (whether or not they can afford to attend IUP) BEFORE IUP invites applicants to pay their non-refundable deposits and to interview. IUP will allow an applicant to take the interview without paying a non-refundable deposit, but IUP will not hold any space for applicants who do not pay their non-refundable deposits by the deposit deadline.

I understand IUP's policy on non-refundable deposits, and I understand that it's my responsibility to know my financial situation before the interview.
